Nancy Wynne Talks of Those Returning Home From West and South—She Sees Some Smart Clothes While on Chestnut Street

IT SEEMS as if every one who was planning to come home, now that April is almost here, and Easter week only a few days off, I am interested to learn that the Charlemagne Towers will be that back today, after a trip out West; in fact, Mrs. Tower has been West almost continuously for some months, and Mr. Tower has been on her now and then. To remember Helen married an army officer and is living in the West. Her mother went out there to be with her for a while.

Roderick, the Towers son, is engaged to Flora Whitney, and their wedding will take place next month. Mr. and Mrs. Tower will be in the Baltimore-Stratford for several weeks, but will spend most of the summer at their country place in Waterville, N. Y. The Putnam family has a place there in the country. Mrs. Putnam was Miss G. Tower, and she is a sister of Mr. Tower.

MRS. CHARLIE WOOD and Mrs. Françoise de St. Paille are expected home today from Alken, S. C. They are sisters. Mrs. Wood having been Miss Margaret Voorhees, daughter of the late Mr. Adolph Beck and Mrs. de St. Paille. Mrs. Wood is now a widow, who was Miss Elizabeth McKean, lived there until her death in the later eighties. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Voorhees, both of whom are now dead, were with their children in Elkins Park, and as each grew up and married, he or she settled about that part of the country with one of two exceptions.

Another sister of Mrs. Wood and Mrs. de St. Paille is Mrs. Drayton, who was Miss Elsie Voorhees, an exceedingly pretty and sweet woman, who and her children live at Melrose Park. I SAW Mrs. Wilcox Smith on Chestnut street yesterday, wearing a handsomely tailored suit of dark blue, the braid being black. She had a sort of mole skin and a low-crowned, flat-topped hat of fine brown straw trimmed with lighter brown, drooping scarlet feathers.

A little further down the street I met Mrs. Sydney Hutchinson, who was looking well in a semi-sports suit of brown corduroy, heavily slashed in the cuffs and collar of the box-coat were edged with fur, and the upturned hat, with its rounded brim, was of brown velvet or corduroy, the brim being faced with bright red soft wrings. I THINK this fashion show that Mrs. Altemus is planning in connection with the Indoor Horse Show will be most interesting. The best idea is to have a special day for the fashion display three days ahead of the Horse Show itself.

Various dressmakers are specially designing frocks for the affair, and a number of the prominent women and girls of the social world will appear in the gowns. It's even whispered that the best suits will be shown. "Who can tell? Anyway, I'm sure it will be wonderful and amazingly pretty. Mrs. Altemus has said that she will have an entire bridal party parade in and out of the store, and she will be wearing a dress with excellent taste herself, and knows so well what is what that I am sure she will ask the very smartest-looking girls to act as models. I wouldn't miss it for anything. It is to be held May 3 at the Third Regiment Armory, and the Horse Show will be May 6, 7 and 8.

MOTHER was putting small Jack to bed when a telephone ring called her away as he was about to jump in between the crisp sheets. So dropping a kiss on his wee brow, she said, "Get in, dearie; Mother will come back in a minute." Five minutes later she returned to see if he was properly settled. For Jack is only four years old. There he lay, but with two large pillows at his back. "You must have your own little pillow, dearie," said Mother, "and go to sleep like a good boy," and she moved the large pillows and placed his own under his head.

"Well," said Jack, resigning himself to the inevitable, "when you are dead I will have the big pillow." "Oh, Jack," said Mother, "would you like me to die?" "No-o-o," said Jack, hesitatingly, "but if God should see fit to take you I wouldn't say nuffin."
